

Save $10 on Seasonal Clean & Tune!

Prepare for winter by having your natural gas appliances, especially your furnace or boiler, inspected now to make sure they are working properly. A malfunctioning furnace can pose serious safety risks such as carbon monoxide (CO) poisoning.<sup>1</sup> Proper maintenance is not only important for safety, but can also increase operating efficiency and reduce energy bills.

To help you stay safe and save money, Columbia Gas is partnering with local heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) contractors during the month of September.<sup>2</sup> Mention this ad and receive a $10 discount when you schedule a clean and tune with a participating contractor (listed on the back).<sup>3</sup> Don't wait! Call your local HVAC contractor today to schedule your September appointment.

To learn more about CO and the signs of CO poisoning, visit us online at ColumbiaGasPA.com/carbon-monoxide.

<sup>1</sup>Improper venting can include a blockage in your chimney. Annual inspections of chimneys are recommended and separate from the HVAC clean and tune.

<sup>2</sup>The contractors listed are not agents or representatives of Columbia Gas and Columbia Gas does not guarantee or warranty the work of the listed contractors. You are free to choose other contractors and do not have to choose a listed contractor.

<sup>3</sup>Offer only valid in participating contractors' designated service areas.
